This DVD features surreal, fascinating and thought-provoking installation environments that invite the viewer to explore the ways we now communicate with each other and with technology. Created for the exhibition StoryRooms that took place in the historical setting of the 1830 Warehouse at the Museum of Science and Industry in Manchester, England (11 October, 2005 – 15 January, 2006), the DVD includes an illustrated essay booklet, an installation soundtrack by Vini Reilly, and a 35 minute film that captures the unique atmosphere of the event and its audience involvement while reflecting the installations through interviews with their creators.
