Andrew Stones

£12.95

Produced to coincide with a major video and sound installation, Atlas, launched at Chisenhale Gallery in London in June 2004, this publication represents the first extensive overview of twenty years of Andrew Stones' video and mixed media work.

Looking back over a prolific career from Stones' early contributions to UK video art practice to the artist's more recent conceptual explorations of leading-edge science and technology, it showcases several new video and photographic pieces produced at restricted-access scientific institutions around the globe.

Featuring commissioned texts by Sean Cubitt and Shirley MacWilliam and tracing a path through an impressive back-catalogue of visual and documentary material, this monographic publication draws out the depths and the subtleties of Stones' evocative and multifaceted practice.
