

Watching

Terry Flower

£5

Terry Flower, a senior lecturer at The University of Brighton, has been commissioned by firstsite to make an artist's book unveiling the hidden fabric of Colchester. The publication Watching exhibits photographs of locations in the town that give a new visibility to its heritage. 'Whether ancient castle or modern shop, the buildings are watching developments through the eyes of their windows. No place is mundane, each location has some magic to offer up to those with time enough to see or feel.' This title follows his other recent works, Meadow River and Hope Gap.
