

Michael Sailstorfer 10,000 Steine

£15

Taking apart, breaking down, expanding, dismantling and piecing together again – the artist Michael Sailstorfer reshapes everyday objects and places them in a new context.

By means of sculptural interventions in the spatial context, Sailstorfer deals with the identity and history of objects and reinterprets them to form a realistic installation. He thus places them in a conceptual field of tension between home and distant lands, mobility and standstill, eternity and transitoriness.

English and German text.
