

Hans-Peter Feldmann Catalogue

£29

Hans-Peter Feldmann rose to prominence in the early 1970s, earning worldwide acclaim for his expansive and encyclopaedic photographic series.

Often presented in the form of books, posters, postcards and installations, these collections link Feldmann's life-long fascination with collecting elements of visual culture.

Among the earliest works is a series of booklets titled Bilder (Pictures), each consisting of a collection of photographs of everyday subjects or situations.

His Time Series, produced during the mid 1970s, expanded upon this, chronicling the most banal events frame by frame, thereby effectively slowing down the passage of time.

Published to accompany Feldmann's major exhibition at the Serpentine Gallery, London, 11 April – 3 June 2012, his first solo presentation in a London public gallery, he presents works from throughout his career.

English and German text.
